

Now I can...

let my creativity take flight

Artist Bebe Wolfe is famous for her birds – ceramic creatures so enchanting they draw flocks of collectors to her Jackson studio each year.

So when neck pain threatened her career, Wolfe knew she needed help fast. Off she flew to Methodist Pain Management in Flowood, where a team approach delivered quick relief.

“It was really kind of magical,” she said. “None of it was invasive. And it gave me relief.”

